POLICE LAW

Alexander Holburn's Police Law Group represents municipal police departments and their members throughout British Columbia in a wide array of civil and administrative matters, including Police Act investigations, disciplinary hearings and judicial review of administrative decisions.

Our Police Law Group represents municipal police departments and their members in civil proceedings relating to the use of force, assault and battery, trespass, false arrest and Charter violations.

In addition, our Police Law Group represents municipal police departments and their members in administrative matters involving Police Act investigations, disciplinary proceedings and judicial reviews, employment matters and human rights complaints.

Our Police Law Group has worked with most municipal police departments in British Columbia and has developed excellent professional relationships with each department and many of their members.
