

BANKING + FINANCE

The financial system is at the centre of our market economy, allowing businesses to scale, financing industry, and supporting investment. The world of banking and finance continues to change in response to innovation, changing global markets, and regulations. Alexander Holburn's lawyers provide swift and strategic advice to clients working to further this vital industry.

Drawing on their deep knowledge of banking and finance, our lawyers act for financial institutions, borrowers and private lenders in a broad range of secured financing transactions, including syndicated loans, leveraged buyout transactions, and asset-based lending. We provide knowledgeable legal counsel to lenders including banks, trust companies, credit unions, funds, and asset-based lenders. We also act for borrowers, trustees in bankruptcy, receivers, and managers. Our lawyers regularly assist clients in routine and complex debt financing and secured and unsecured lending transactions. On every file, we take the time to understand the needs and objectives of our clients.

Alexander Holburn takes a team-based approach to addressing financing matters. This allows our lawyers to complement each other's experience and education. Our partners, associates, and paralegals work together to ensure efficiency and a high-level of client service. We also engage colleagues in adjacent areas of law to deliver comprehensive, seamless advice backed by our in-depth knowledge of the financial needs of clients operating in a wide range of industries and sectors.

We understand the challenges our clients face, including managing high consumer debt levels, slowed growth, and low interest rates. In this competitive climate, financial institutions, businesses, and individuals can benefit from a strategic partnership with our Banking & Finance Team.
